PETITIONS OUT
THIS WEEK FOR
BRIDGING YOUGHSouth Connellsville Project Revived After Lying Dormant
Eight Years.SURVEY BEING MADEFive Thousand Signatures Counted
Up; Project Probably Will Be Laid Before Grand Jury at December Court; Public Support Needed.

Eight petitions will be placed in circulation this week, probably Saturday, in revival of the movement begun several years ago to secure a bridge over the Youghiogheny River at South Connellsville. The idea will be to have the project laid before the grand jury in Uniontown at the December term of court. Five thousand signatures will be the aim.

Two petitions will be placed in Connellsville, two at South Connellsville, two at Dunbar, one at Mount Braddock and one at Everson. One may be circulated in Uniontown.

A survey for the location is being made this week by City Engineer J. E. Hoeschel of Connellsville. W. O. McKean of Uniontown has been retained as counsel in the movement.

A meeting of South Connellsville and Dunbar councils will probably be held during the week to take action. The proposed location of the bridge is between a point near the Capitan glass plant and one just east of the West Penn power house.

It is eight years since the most recent movement for a bridge was launched. It is intended that greater effort shall be put behind this one and that the aid of the Youghiogheny Automobile Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Rotary Club and other organizations will be sought. Washington, one of the prime movers, said.

With the construction of the bridge there will be a shorter route between Connellsville and Uniontown that will greatly aid in developing the southern portion of Connellsville and the South Connellsville area, to say nothing of Dunbar and other territory on the east side of the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads.

Airmen in Chicago

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 15.—The around-the-world fliers took off from McCook Field for Chicago at 10 A. M. today.

Weather conditions were ideal except for a stiff breeze from the north which Lieutenant Smith, commander of the flight, said would cut the speed to about 50 miles per hour.

Woman Is Led by
"Strange Impulse"
To Start Fires

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A "woman in black" who hurried about the old districts known as "Hell Kitchen," lighting five fires within an hour and a half on Sunday, was held for observation today charged with arson.

To Chief of Police Marshall Brody, the woman, who gave her name as Jennie Latimer, said she had "followed a strange impulse and meant no harm." The fires were set within the vicinity of a church crowded with worshippers. Residents were panic-stricken as one alarm followed another.

Pittsburg Man Is

By United Press.
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15.—When his wife left her home for a short time early today to consult a doctor regarding a sudden illness, Frank Chetani, aged 32, was murdered in his bed.

Chicago Rallies to Cause Of Bernard Grant; Leopold
Loeb Case to Be Precedent*Willie Will Be Used for Dunbar
Road Improvement

Dunbar residents feel jubilant today with the announcement of town council that on Saturday night a contract was let to the Bituminous Paving & Resurfacing Company of Connellsville for a willie road from the Pennsylvania railroad crossing near Connellsville street to the stretch just recently improved. The latest improvement will be on Woodvale street. The work will begin as soon as Contractor P. J. Ridge finishes a small Connellsville job.

The stretch to be improved is not long but at present it is very rough. Once the contract is completed, Dunbar will have a first class highway from that place to the Connellsville-Uniontown road.

For years residents of that community have been agitating the road improvement. Then came a change in the personnel of council and with it the contract for the improvement of the road just completed. Following that up with Saturday night's contract has brought for more approval than condemnation from citizens of the town.

Now it is suggested that while the willie is being laid, it be extended 200 yards further than the junction of Woodvale street with the present improved stretch to join with the township road through Mahoning, which highway also connects with the Uniontown road. Supervisor Fred C. Smith says if Woodvale street is improved to the city line, he will put the township thoroughfare in excellent shape. That would take the Uniontown travel off the one road now leading from the borough.

DISABLED VETERANS COMMISSION TO BE IN UNIONTOWN THIS WEEK

The commission to make an investigation of the condition of disabled World War veterans of Pennsylvania, created at the last session of the State Legislature in the interest of the Pennsylvania veterans of the late war, is entering deeply into the problem of relief for those deserving ex-service men who have had difficulty in properly adjudicating their claims with the government for service connected disabilities.

In order to offer the veterans of southwestern Pennsylvania the benefits of the Disabled Veterans Commission, this commission has decided to have at the disposal of the veterans its services on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 18, 19 and 20. At this time the commission will receive claims, new or old, at the office of Coroner S. A. Balz, on the third floor of the courthouse, Uniontown.

It is anticipated that many claims on compensation, hospitalization and vocational training will be brought by the commission from the veterans in this vicinity. This will be probably the only time that this commission will sit in this community and many ex-service men are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity to have their claims straightened out.

Housekeeper Shot, Mother Killed for Refusal to Marry

Special to The Courier.
CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 25.—Enraged because she would not become his wife, Michael Leat, 35-year-old bachelor, shot and seriously wounded his housekeeper, Mrs. Addie Garver, 34, killed her mother, Mrs. Lillian Dotter, aged 65, and then committed suicide at the Dotter home last night, according to authorities investigating the affair today.

Mrs. Garver, a divorcee, until two months ago, had practically lived at Leat's home where she kept house for him. Because of his abuse of her she said at the hospital she left his home and refused to return.

With the closing of the Dawson fair, the out of town persons connected with the fair left for their homes. The clerical department of the Dawson Fair Association, composed largely of Pittsburgers, were Alvin Yochum, Jasper Williams, Webb Yochum, Joseph Metzner, Benjamin Weaver, Frank Rothwell, Norman Hartman, George Caska, Theodore Corbett, Frank Layton and Donald Schlag, all of Pittsburg, and Matthew Storey of Brownsville.

Appeal for Pardon First Move in Behalf of Youth Under Death Sentence.

By United Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—With a rising public opinion behind him, Attorney Thomas E. Swanson today prepared a petition for pardon of Bernard Grant, 19 and poor, to determine whether this is "one law for the poor and another for the rich." Stories of persons from all walks of life have enlisted in the fight to have Grant's sentence of death for murder of a policeman set aside by Governor Small to conform with the mercy shown Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of millionaires who confessed to the murder of Dobby Franks.

Efforts are being made to enlist the aid of Samuel H. Hays, former corporation counsel of Chicago, who acted as personal attorney for Jacob Franks and helped prosecute the slayers of his son. Haysson is expected to take a hand in the case. Swanson will have Grant sign the petition for pardon some time today and mail the papers to Small this evening. He is expected to be placed before the board of pardons. Swanson is asking for the pardon on the grounds that testimony connecting Grant with the murder of Patrolman Ralph Souders was so flimsy as to be ridiculous. If pardon is refused, Swanson will ask for commutation of sentence.

Barley Grant, father of the youth, with both legs off at the knees as the result of a railroad accident 18 years ago, is appealing to his friends to help save Bernard.

MEXICO, Mo., Sept. 15.—Speaking to a congregation which included 80 members of the K. K. K., in regalia, Rev. J. H. Hughes of the First Baptist Church here Sunday attacked Justice John H. Cawley's decision in the Leopold-Loeb hearing in the argument on the text "Thou art weighed and found wanting."

Rev. Hughes drew a parallel between the Leopold-Loeb case and that of Bernard Grant, sentenced to hang for the murder of a Chicago policeman. He compared the education of the two sons of millionaires with that of the boy from the stockyards in Chicago and suggested that justice had been swayed by prestige and wealth.

MISSING GIRL

By United Press.
KINGSTON, N. J., Sept. 15.—The mutilated body of Elizabeth Johnson, 15-year-old school girl of Ansonia, who has been missing from her home since August 12, was found today on the St. Joseph College grounds, near Lake Carnegie.

There was a bullet wound in the left temple of the girl's head and this is believed to have caused her death. Identification of the girl was made through shreds of clothing about the body and jewelry on the hands. Detectives said the body was badly decomposed and they believe the girl has been dead since shortly after her disappearance.

The caretaker of the college found the body in a clump of bushes 100 yards off the main road. It was taken to a morgue in New Brunswick.

The college has been closed since June.

Father of Griffiths Brothers Dies in Wales; Here in 1907

At that time Mr. Griffiths celebrated his 60th anniversary with his children.

Besides the sons here he is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Oliver Hopkins of Athens, Ga., formerly a clerk for the Wright-Metzer Company of Connellsville, and three children in Wales.

Tomorrow Second Day to Register
For the Election

Tomorrow is the second day for registration of voters in Connellsville. Every one that expects to vote in the presidential election on November 4 must be registered. The first day a few over a thousand were placed on the rolls. It is the duty of the remaining thousands to get to the places of registration tomorrow or October 4, the final day. There is always a chance that something will interfere if registration is delayed until the last day and for that reason every man and woman of voting age who has not been enrolled is urged to look after this most important duty tomorrow.

The registration will be at the regular polling places in the several wards from 8 o'clock in the morning until 1: from 2 to 4, and from 7 to 10 o'clock.

You cannot be registered unless you produce a receipt for county taxes paid within two years. If you are a naturalized American, take along naturalization papers.

"Our National Spree" Is
Term Rev. J. L. Proudfoot
Applies to Defense Day

In the Weekly Bulletin of the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. J. L. Proudfoot, minister, had the following comment relative to the observance of National Defense Day:

"After our national spree, when we talked and acted foolishly (as men do when on a spree) in the spirit of the subcommittee of all the nations, many Americans realize their folly and say again with a warrior who hated war, 'Let us have peace.'"

"The Scripture lesson that should have been read at every Defense Day gathering is found in 2 Samuel, chapter 24. David appointed a Defense Day. Josh, not so good a man, but a more far-seeing statesman asked, 'Why doth the king delight in this thing?' David prevailed, and the people were numbered. In the event of war it was found that the nation would have 1,400,000 valiant men that drew the sword, a matter of boasting for Israel and a warning to the other nations. Then David's heart smote him and he said, 'I have sinned greatly in that which I have done. I have done foolishly, perversely.' God answered, offering three things: Seven years of famine, three months of plague before the country's enemies, or three days' pestilence in the land.

"America, with far less excuse for doing the same thing, can scarcely expect less punishment. It was a day when our people forgot the God of their fathers. Read the chapter referred to this afternoon. It tells us how wise and good men are led to do foolish and wicked things; also, what they should do afterward."

At the conclusion of his sermon proper, the subject of which was "A Pleasant Awakening," Rev. Proudfoot devoted his attention to amplifying his bulletin comment on Defense Day, severely criticizing the program as tending more to provoke war than to promote peace.

He declared that several factors in our population, particularly manufacturers and "big business" collectively, "wanted war in order to make profit from it as they did during the World War." He stated that while "listening in" on the radio on Friday evening he heard Secretary of War Weeks expressing gratification at the success of the "Defense Day" observances, immediately he "cut out" WCAP, from which station the broadcast was being made, being unwilling to hear anything that savored of support of the government's plan of taking stock of our defensive resources.

Rev. Proudfoot regarded it as deplorable that America—a Christian nation—should engage in what he termed "a military display" at the very time Japan—a heathen nation—is preparing to hold a peace demonstration. During the latter portion of his sermon Rev. Proudfoot spoke in vigorous and at times in bitter denunciation of the whole Defense Day proposition and in condemnation of "those who were in any way responsible for it or took part in its observance."

WESTMORELAND S. S.

LaFollette Crowd Making Most Noise But Not Exercising Much Influence Over Conservative Voters; Situation Unlike 1912; Many New Voters.

Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 15.—This has always been a Republican stronghold, so it is not surprising to find President Coolidge not only retaining the normal Republican voter but a good many others who do not relish a change in administration at any time—the natural-born conservatives.

The President will get a big vote hereabouts. His opponent, John W. Davis, has not stirred his own party to activity. Possibly it is because Davis believes in concentrating in other states and possibly he plans to stimulate interest when he begins a tour of this state. But thus far the Democratic organization has done very little.

The LaFollette third ticket is making more noise than the Democrats. Senator Burton Wheeler, vice-presidential nominee with LaFollette, addressed an enthusiastic meeting here two nights ago. It was rainy and the hall would have seated 3,000 but about 2,000 or more were on hand. And they cheered him with a spontaneity that tended to prove they did not need to be convinced of the merit of his platform.

Analysis of the crowd, it was not a silk stockings affair through here and there were the parlor socialist type. Most of the audience came from the working classes. They looked like the thousands one has seen listening intently to the soap box orators of the past ten years. No doubt there were many Democrats but the conclusion seems justified that the third party ticket ultimately will draw from both major parties. Yet it will not affect the outcome here, for the way at home vote which so often is conservative will be casted to the polls this year. One does not have to go far to discover that the beneficiary of the get-out-the-vote movement will be the Republican party.

The public may be prepared for a record breaking vote, judging by the efforts being made in localities as one sided in politics as this. The vote in Maine a few days ago was significant of this move. Then 260,000 votes were cast as compared with 195,000 four years ago. Incidentally the mathematical will be somewhat upset. Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, has figured it out, for instance, that the Democrats in Maine had a higher percentage of the total vote cast last year.

By United Press.
BERLIN, Sept. 15.—General Erich von Ludendorff, leader of the Fascist party in Germany, today presented a new version of Germany's "war guilt" in a speech at Muenster, where thousands of Nationalists were gathered. "The German people as a whole were not guilty of starting the war," said von Ludendorff, but there are men here who share in the guilt. They are those leaders who in 1912 failed to provide recruits called for by the army. Had these been forthcoming the war at least would have been of short duration. We would have been victorious in from four to six weeks."

ELECTRICAL POWER ON FARMS IS BEING THOROUGHLY TESTED

To Determine Practicability of Extending Service to Rural Communities.

ONE LINE ALREADY BUILT

Definite steps to solve the economic puzzle involved in the electrification of the American farm have at last been taken. Investigations are projected in several different sections of the nation to discover the secret of taking electric service to the farms so that it will be beneficial both to the farmer and the power companies.

Probably the most advanced of these experiments has been undertaken in Minnesota by several co-operating agencies. Chief among them are the University of Minnesota, the Northern States Power Company and a group of farmers living in the vicinity of Red Wing. Manufacturing concerns, as well as manufacturers of farm machinery, are watching the undertaking.

Already a trial farm transmission line, five miles in length, has been built out of Red Wing, and 18 farms have been connected up to it. A carefully thought-out rate structure has been set up, under which, after paying monthly fixed charges the farmer is offered really low rates for energy which have the effect of making his electricity cheaper per kilowatt hour than the more energy he uses. The aim here is to establish such rates as will invite the farmer to use energy in quantity, thereby insuring for himself cheap electricity, with all the advantages that it gives him in his work and his home, and at the same time providing a profitable revenue for the power company so that it becomes attractive for the latter to handle the business of supplying electricity to farms.

In other sections of the country, notably in Alabama, this whole broad question is also under investigation. It is that state in the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, and the Alabama Power Company, which are co-operating to establish a basis upon which farm electrification may be carried out. The actual building of power lines in Alabama is well under way, and instead of merely one line, several are being planned for.

There will be at least four lines in

EARLY REPORTS ON COKER GRID TEAM VERY FAVORABLE

Favorable reports are being heard from the Connellville High School football team, and it is all information is correct the Cokers will write a name for themselves this season.

The team, of course, will not be a world-beater, but if the boys who are now reporting duty at Fayette Field give Coaches Lerow and Settle the right kind of cooperation, High School will find its standards defended by a stalwart organization.

The fate of the team alone rests with the boys. It is now time for each youth, large or small, who is a candidate, to make a pledge to himself that he will "stay out" during the entire schedule, even if it looks as though he will never break into a game. It is just such spirit that brings victory to a team when nothing else will.

The entire team looks strong. First opportunity to see the eleven in action will be afforded Saturday. On that day the West Newton High School will be hero for the occasion. On the following Saturday Mount Pleasant will be entertained and then the next week the strong Jeannette club will be opponent.

This week will see some new vim put into the practices, with a number of scrimmage listed.

Capstan And Divada Clubs Clash Today

After three postponements the weather man today decided to let the tilt between Capstan and the Divada. Independent the materialize this afternoon and greeted the athletes with fair skies. The game will be called promptly at 4:30 o'clock this evening at the South Connellville grounds. Everything is in readiness for the tilt, both clubs having the best line-ups available for the contest.

Altogether, one of the Capstan contingent, and said to be one of the best and most effective movements in the county, will oppose Jack Menefee, former Harnarville Consumer south-paw, in the clash today.

With two victories under their belts, the glass blowers will go into the encounter to "eliminate" the tri-town club from a possible claim of the county championship. If the Young Valley nine wins this evening another game will have to be added to the intertown series between these clubs. Everything to win and nothing to lose, the Divada aggregation will line up against the glass blowers today.

The tilt today promises baseball fans one of the most hotly contested games of the year. Both teams are out for blood.

Brooklyn and New York Win as Bucs Idle in Boston

New York and Brooklyn each hung up another victory yesterday. The Giants trimming the Cardinals 8-2, and the Robins blanking the Reds, 2-0. The lexus leaders had an easy time with St. Louis, while Dizzy Vance hung up his fourteenth consecutive victory for the Dodgers.

The Pittsburgh Pirates did not play yesterday, spending the idle day at Boston where they finish up the series with the Braves today. Babe Adams, veteran hurler, will start the game for the Buccos.

UPPER NEW YORK VOTERS STRONG FOR KEEPING COOLIDGE

Monday than they did two or four years ago and that corresponding the Republican percentage of the total was diminished. Throughout the nation a larger vote than four years ago is in prospect notwithstanding the early signs of an apathetic campaign was or inactivation in the Republican party. All is serene on the banks of the Genesee and the throbs of industry pulsates strongly without a symptom of faltering.

LaFollette has a hold on the working classes here, even as they are not hungry or hungry. They like LaFollette because his fame as a champion of the masses has spread through no conscious achievement or pledge, of future personality catches the imagination of his followers as a slogan. Such LaFollette strength as there is may be classed as Socialistic to an extent, but with it goes a number of people who want to be different who like the words "Independent" and "Progressive" and whose defection from the ranks of the regular parties will be to no small degree offset by the new vote.

It is no three cornered roll here. President Coolidge has measured up to the traditional idea of a Republican nominee and whether he represents vigor, or masterful silence, or common sense, or cool calmness, or the maintenance of the status quo, the fundamental reasoning of those who uniformly support him is that he himself ranks above his party colleagues and that he will somehow get the best of the situation and keep business employment and all the other materialism of the hour safely intact. For there is no urge for "progressivism" as it was known in 1912, no crying lull to be remedied, no crying slogan. "Forward Christian Soldiers" None of these outbursts have characterized the third party movement here. It is a silent group with a class protect as of yore. Their vote may be large relatively speaking, but it will not exceed in percentage the votes cast in this state in previous years for independence tickets.

So far as New York is concerned, the LaFollette movement can be dismissed as hardly a factor in the writing. October may see a change but the conservatives will then be awake too. This is a rock ribbed Republican state, with no Theodore Roosevelt running this year but a man from distant Wisconsin. Such is the effect thus far of all the keynote speeches, denunciations, labor exhortations and political palaver of the two months that have elapsed since the electric fans of the Republican convention first adorned the slogan "Keep Cool with Coolidge." And what's more they accent the last syllable of LaFollette which about illustrates what a stranger he really is to the people within those gates.

Somewhat or other, did you ever see anything that seemed more incongruous than a sailor at a horse race?

Kicking off from midfield will be the big thrill of college football starting late in September.

Joe Foshaw of St. Louis, internationally famous as a marathon racer, in a recent talk to boys in the Mount City advised them to "keep in the fresh air and sunshine and exercise out of doors."

Murray Squeezed

by Walter Rehg

Walter Rehg, veteran Indianapolis outfielder, has a line which he can trade with pretty near anybody. It was a sultry, hot day when the Indians played the Brewers in Milwaukee recently. Old Jim Murray, the umpire, was disporting himself like a bear with a fastened claw. Rehg knew it and got a trifle fresh with him.

"D'ya wants be run outa here?" growled the veteran arbiter.

"Yes," chirped Rehg—"and by the way, how'd you like to take the afternoon off with me?"

Jim mopped his brow and seemed to enjoy the afternoon more.

"MILT" OLANDER HAS RETURNED AS COACH

One of Best-Liked Football Stars in Illini Annals.

"Milt" Olander is coming back to the University of Illinois as freshman football coach and everybody is tickled. Olander is renowned as one of the hardest players and best liked football men in Illini annals, and everybody agrees that he is the ideal man to succeed Hurt.

Olander is the kind of man you like the minute you see him, and he wears well. He played tackle for four years, from 1918 to 1921, and then was a member of two championship squads.

Olander was regarded as a leader even then, as he was "football captain" for two years.

From Illinois he took the tackle went to Western State, Normal, Kansas, where he made an exceptional record as head football coach. His first year, 1922, his eleven was undefeated and not even scored on.

It makes a lot of difference with the coaching young football player whether his freshman coach has the personality which encourages him to battle. The Illini know they have a wonderful man in "Milt."

Illinois believes in a fair chance for all. No one is dropped from freshman squad. When the freshmen report, all are kept on the squad as long as they come out regularly.

A freshman squad of about thirty-five men is chosen and the remainder of the men are divided into squads representing the various colleges in the university. If a player, on any of these teams, shows promise he is moved up to the freshmen varsity squad. If a man on that squad does not "pan" out, he is reduced to one of the mass squads. In this way all of the men receive coaching, and the competition for a freshman varsity berth is always keen.

The first national Japanese Olympic meet will be held at Tokyo November 1 to 3.

"MILT" Olander.

The Paramount

"VIRTUOUS LIARS," showing today and Tuesday at the Paramount presents Edith Allen and David Powell in the starrer roles.

The leading role is that of a girl who has given up an artistic career to marry. Her husband deserts her and her child and she is compelled to begin again as a struggling painter.

Her portraits attract the attention of a wealthy art patron and circumstances compel her to let the impression exist that she is a widow. This elderly man proposes marriage and when she tells him the truth the shock proves fatal. He leaves her a trust fund of half a million dollars and the husband returns to compel her to share the fortune with him. Her love for the nephew of her patron provides conflict which presents tense dramatic situations.

The nephew is played by David Powell, Ralph Kellard plays the husband, Maurice Costello is the art patron, and Naomi Childers, Burr McIntosh and Dagmar Godowsky have important roles. Albertina Rasch, formerly prima ballerina of the Chicago Opera appears as an interpretive dancer.

Wednesday and Thursday, "The Breathless Moment" will be shown.

The Soisson

"THE EXTRA GIRL," a Mack Sennett picture with Mabel Normand in the leading role is the feature picture today, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Soisson.

The Extra Girl tells a story that enables Miss Normand to bring all her winning ways and wonderful acting ability into full play before the camera.

In an obscure country town lives Sue Graham. She lives and dreams of the day when she will become a movie star. She unexpectedly gets a chance and Hollywood she goes with her small-town makeup and mannerisms. What happens there supplies the story with swift kaleidoscopic fun, thrills, satire and a series of dramatic scenes that make "The Extra Girl" one of the biggest productions of the year.

Miss Normand plays Sue Graham and she plays it with all the intensity of a true actress instilling into every move and gesture, smile and wistful expression the proverbial Normand style that has established her as one of the screen's most popular stars.

The Orpheum

"THE COVERED WAGON," a picture that will enrapture every spectator, opened today at the Orpheum for a four day attraction. It is a photoplay which serves as a double purpose. It entertains and instructs and pleases both the eye and mind.

The features embraced in this story are many and varied and include among others the start of 250 covered wagons from Westport Landing (now Kansas City) in 1848.

The horrors of lording fresh water prairie fires and the life are depicted with great realism. A buffalo hunt is one of the most exciting scenes.

Old Fort Bridger with a night attack and fight by day with Indians are shown. The dividing of the trails to Oregon and California is old Fort Yuma, Texas and the gold fever in California, magnificent mountain shots and a combination of the romance with the establishment of one of the first homesteads in Oregon—these are all incidents in a picture that bristles with big scenes.

Such historical characters as Kit Carson, Jim Bridger and Bill Jackson, scouts and typical western characters, are portrayed in the Paramount screen version of the novel, which is considered to be one of the most notable literary achievements of the present decade.

The climax of many pleading dances is reached when Billy Morgan appears in a specialty. The chorus is a big asset to the piece, the girls showing abundant enthusiasm as well as snappy steps and singing pleasingly.

Friday and Saturday "The Yarns: Man in the World" will be shown.

The Arcade

A good rousing revue of music and dancing and song is Kikoo Koo which opens at the Arcade Theatre today.

Doc Paul and Joe Barrett with lots of new material in the comedy line are sure to give the patrons many a laugh. ## FIGHT OVER OPEN SHOP NOW WAGING IN NORTHERN W. VA.

Mine Workers Concentrate Field Force, Operators Form Association.

EVICTON IS BIG ISSUE

Writing from Clarkburg a correspondent of the Cleveland Daily Metal Trade says that concentration of officials of the United Mine Workers in northern West Virginia, resistance to evictions from company houses and organization of a new open shop coal association in that part of the state show that the chief battle-ground of open and closed shop extremists is in northern West Virginia. Violence already marks the course of those opposed to open shop operation.

Since the struggle between the union and mine owners who refuse to sign an agreement with the union was inaugurated a number of tippling houses have been destroyed by fire and several attacks made on mining settlements. Undoubtedly by such violence, many of the operators of open shop mines have limited their forces in a new organization known as the Central West Virginia Coal Association, a considerable tonnage being represented by the membership of this organization.

Open shop mines are gaining in number even though tippling houses being destroyed with a view to forcing suspension of operations.

Inasmuch as the union is pinning a good deal of faith to its ability to resist eviction of miners from houses of coal companies desiring to operate with non-union workmen final settlement of the eviction question is awaited with interest.

Attorney General E. T. England of West Virginia will be asked for a more specific ruling on what constitutes force in the eviction of striking miners from coal company houses in order to clarify an issue which has led to long controversy between union officials and coal companies.

The supreme court of West Virginia has ruled that evictions may be made without court proceedings provided there is no breach of the peace. Inasmuch as miners will not vacate unless forced to do so county officials are not certain as to just how the supreme court decision is to be interpreted.

Apple Crop Above Average for Five Years in Country

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—September estimates indicate that the commercial apple crop of the United States this year will be 28,301,000 barrels, or 18 per cent less than the large crop of 1921. The expected production, however, is 400,000 barrels above the five-year average.

The Pennsylvania crop shows a reduction of 36 per cent, only 811,000 barrels being expected as compared with 1,268,000 barrels last year, according to the latest report from the State Department of Agriculture. Recognition of the reduced crop of late apples is evident in the prevailing prices for winter fruit which are considerably higher than a year ago. Notable improvement was noted in Pennsylvania in York Imperialis the leading commercial variety. Baldwin showed the best prospects during August although Grimes and in many sections, the Jonathans maintained their condition well. The principal varieties to suffer from continued dropping, scab and aphid damage were the Rome, Staygreen and Don Davis.

The commercial crop in the eastern states will apparently be about 5 per cent less than last year. Increases of 12 per cent in New Jersey, and 22 per cent in Virginia almost balance decreases of one-third in Pennsylvania and Maryland and one-fifth in West Virginia.

"That does not refer to you," answered Joan. "You asked me to help you in the biggest fight of your life. Well, I am going to help you in that fight."

"It is too late," said Lancaster. "Never," replied Joan valiantly. "You don't understand, Miss Wentworth. That's the mistake all people make in trying to care us. Don't you know that a man or woman never comes a victor to a fight except from a physical or physical pain, or under stress of mental anguish? If you could cure me the old trouble would still be there. I should feel a victim again. Life is worthless to me, Miss Wentworth," he added, quite simply.

"For happiness, perhaps—I don't know. But not for duty. Your life is to be used, Doctor Lancaster, for the sake of the people, and I am going to help you use it. Your wonderful skill—"

"I am going to use it," Joan said, though he was suffering physically, there was some mental trouble which her words had evoked.

"Doctor Lancaster," she said, "the first thing you have to do is to use your will. And I am going to give you your first test, a little one only. It will last thirty seconds. Can you put forth your will for just that length of time?"

He fixed his eyes anxiously on hers and nodded. Yet she saw them waver toward the bottle.

"I am going to cross the room," she said. "Don't stir a finger till I return."

She heard Myers in the hall, and going to the door, she turned the key. She heard Myers' hand near her door. But she had no time to think of him. She went back to Lancaster, whose hands were strained hard against the arms of the chair.

"Well done!" she said.

"Miss Wentworth, I must have that hypodermic now."

"I want you to wait. Wait half an hour, Doctor Lancaster."

"I can't!" he cried, starting up. "I tell you I must have it. After an overdose one must have a smaller dose. It will get me up nicely. Just half the quantity, Miss Wentworth."

"He is speaking to his feet, shaking and furious," she said, shaking and furious. "Give me that bottle at once!" he cried.

"In half an hour."

Lancaster sat down. "Confound you, why ever did you come here?"

"Well, Doctor!" she said.

He asked, "Suppose that I discharge you?"

"I shall not go, Doctor Lancaster. We have covered that point in our conversation already."

Then, seeing his distress, she went on rapidly: "Listen to me, Doctor Lancaster. You brought me here upon an impulse, because you had no one whom you could trust. You wanted to fight and you wanted me to fight with you. Well, I am going to do it, and we are going to win!" She took out her watch and laid it on the table. "In twenty-five minutes you shall have half a dose. Then we shall have won the first skirmish. O, Doctor Lancaster, fight like a man and help us win!"

She spoke with so much earnestness that she kindled his enthusiasm. "Yes, we'll make the fight!" he cried, with blazing eyes. "If only I had had you long ago!"

He was in the full reaction from his stupor. He struck his fist emphatically upon the arm of the chair. "I'll be a man again!" he cried. "If you know everything, Miss Wentworth, you might as well tell me how I can be caught in a snare of his own making. But I'll win, with your aid, and I'll be my own master again."

"You are your own master now, Doctor Lancaster. Always think that and remember it."

"My own master? When that hand follows me?"

"Mr. Myers is your servant," Lancaster laughed harshly. "By heaven!" he cried. "I'll tell him so. Miss Wentworth, give me that dose now, so that I can feel like a man again and have the strength to send him about his business!"

"It will give you strength," she answered, "but it will not make you yourself, your better self. You will no longer want to send him about his business."

Lancaster stared at her. "How do you know that?" he asked. "Are you a witch? It's true. But I can't wait any longer. I have waited fifteen minutes. Half an hour next time, Miss Wentworth, the third draw."

As her eyes went toward the desk he snatched up the bottle and hypodermic at his wrist. But Joan caught at his wrist. The bottle had already plunged the syringe into the fluid, and he was upon his feet.

He tried to free his hand, he fought furiously, but Joan succeeded in knocking the bottle from his grasp. It fell upon the table. Lancaster righted it, and suddenly darted toward the desk. Joan caught him. He lunged her across the room. He had got the drawer open when she grappled with him again.

He struck at her with his right hand, beating her about the wrists, but she would not let go. She would never leave him, not though he struck her in the face. He tossed her this way and that, but she never unclasped her hold. At last he dropped into his chair exhausted and covered his face with his hands.

"Twelve minutes more," said Joan triumphantly, looking at her watch.

Then she realized that all through the struggle there had been a hammering at the door. She got up. "Who is it?" she called.

"Miss Wentworth, unlock the door, please," came the frightened voice of Mrs. Fowler.

"In a few minutes," said Joan.

"Miss Wentworth, what are you doing to Doctor Lancaster?"

"I am taking care of him."

"Mr. Myers says you will kill him. He has got to have his morphine; you can't stop a man abruptly like that. Mr. Myers understands him—"

"Mr. Myers can come in in fifteen minutes," said Joan. All the while she spoke she had never taken her eyes from Lancaster's face.

Lancaster was suffering acutely. The sweat streamed down his face, and he was looking at her with the eyes of a suffering animal. Yet it was not until the watch hand was on the hour that Joan took the bottle from the desk.

"The whole bottle is a normal dose," said Lancaster, through his teeth. "Joan drew one-fourth into the syringe."

"You must give me all, Miss Wentworth. That little quantity is useless."

He was lying about the strength of the dose, and he knew that Joan knew. She did not answer him. He extended his arm, and she plunged the needle into the wrist. Then she corked the bottle and she put it into the pocket of her uniform, having previously added the small quantity left the bottle upon the table.

The hammering at the door had begun again. But the girl waited until the spasms of pain disappeared from Lancaster's face. He rose.

"Miss Wentworth!" he began gratefully. Then, catching sight of her bruised wrists, he took her hands in his.

"Did I do that?" he cried.

"Not you, Doctor Lancaster," answered Joan, enquiring her wrists away. "Your enemy—our enemy, who is now wanted in his first field of # Revolt Spreads Ruin in São Paulo. Model City of Brazil.

Richest and Most Progressive State of Brazilian Republic. After Three Weeks Bombardment Loses its Fight for Independence.

WHEN newspapers announced some weeks ago that civil war had flared up in Brazil, they did so in limited space, and without recourse to the bigger and blacker types. The outbreak was accepted as just another serio-comic South American revolution, in which the Generals would outnumber the Privates, and the casualties would be largely accidental.

Sao Paulo did not sound like the name of a place that a really sanguinary struggle would pick to go on location, and days when Olympic records were being broken the news from the war zone had to get off the front page and find space back among the advertisements.

Then came developments that upset our traditional notions of South American warfare. Instead of the usual staid desultory skirmishing between gangs of barefooted, plunder-seeking citizens there were pitched battles in which were engaged thousands of well equipped soldiers, ending in the capture of Sao Paulo by the Federal troops, after three weeks of fighting, and with numerous bombardments.

The backbone of the revolt is broken. Remains the mopping-up of the scattered bands of rebels and then peace, with its arduous task of rebuilding.

Great Damage to Sao Paulo.

Sharp and short as was the revolt the casualties number thousands and the tangible property loss has been tremendous. Sao Paulo, alone, has been damaged to the extent of fifteen to thirty millions of dollars, and Brazil's income so disorganized that it will take months to restore it to normal.

The future money loss to trade cannot be estimated. Sao Paulo is Brazil's chief railroad center and this future loss will depend largely upon the speed with which transportation is restored.

In area, Brazil is a nation larger than continental United States. About midway down its Atlantic seaboard is the state of Sao Paulo, a division scarcely less densely settled than times as big as Pennsylvania. The capital of Sao Paulo is the City of Sao

Sao Paulo had 62 large manufacturing establishments and these suffered heavily from shells, fire and pillage. It will be months before the city's manufacturing resumes the pre-revolutionary mark. Weeks, possibly months, will be required to repair the damage to Sao Paulo's transportation.

Coffee is Brazil's mainstay. It is almost her life. From it comes her greatest revenue and to it the revolution struck its hardest blow. Tremendous sums of money have been expended by Brazil through the government created "Instituto de Defesa Permanente do Cafe," or Institute of Permanent Coffee Defense—to spread propaganda through the world, especially the United States, and increase the use of coffee. This money was raised for the Institute by placing a tax of 200 reis upon every bag of coffee produced and its expenditure was with a view to its return through increased business in the future.

Coffee Propaganda Strikes "Sang"

Beginning in 1923 coffee propaganda has been intensive in the United States—largely so because we are the main purchasers of coffee—amounting, in the report on coffee made by Professor Samuel G. Prescott of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. This report, for which Professor Prescott was paid $10,000, has been widely disseminated in newspapers, magazines and pamphlets.

Professor Prescott's findings have aroused the ire of American physicians. Dr. Oliver T. Osborne, professor of therapeutics at Yale University, denounced it as "venomous," stating in the Journal of the American Medical Association that "The enormous consumption of coffee can do great harm to a large number of people in the United States, who cannot and should not drink coffee."
